FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Investigation Hotline launched new services: high-quality aerial and underwater surveillance.

Toronto, Ontario – 12/03/2023: Investigation Hotline, a leader in the industry of personal, corporate or domestic investigations have announced the launch of its new services aimed at providing high-quality aerial and underwater surveillance to clients across industries.

Investigation Hotline offers airborne/submarine surveillance services, including aerial videography and photography, at any time of day on land and underwater with a team of investigators and certified drone pilots. Specialists are prepared to assist clients in various circumstances, including looking for missing people, helping with rescue missions, finding lost objects that have sunk to the bottom, keeping track of work processes, performing inspections in various industries, and conducting any necessary investigations.

"We are ready to assist our clients with the latest in aerial and underwater surveillance technology," said Mitchell Dubros, founder and licensed Drone pilot of Investigation Hotline. "Our team has the expertise and equipment to deliver exceptional aerial and underwater surveillance solutions that meet the unique needs of our clients."

Modern drones (UAVs) outfitted with high-resolution cameras and sensors are used by Investigation Hotline to take in-depth pictures and videos of the targeted area. With the aid of these technologies, exact day, night, airborne, and underwater photography and filmmaking are now possible. In addition to providing surveillance services, Investigation Hotline also creates unique solutions to each client's demands.
